Clergy and Laity Do Not Expect Favorable Reply.

CONVENTION IS CRITICISED

Ministers Declare More Consideration Should Have Been Given Philippine Prelate's Known Sincerity. Dr. McKim Gets Letter Which Might Have Changed Vote.

There is a general impression among the clergy and laity who participated in the election of the Right Rev. Charles Henry Brent as Bishop of Washington, on Wed-Just think of buying the finest hand-made clothing in America at manufacturers' prices, and that, too, right at the beginning of the seation of a bishop will not take place until ome time in October.

The standing committee of the Washgest suit bargain you were ever of- ington diocese does not expect that any reply will be received from the Philippine dishop for several weeks. There is talk of a delegation of Washington clergymen and members of the laity journeying to Manila to lay the official notification before Bishop Brent in person, and urge im to accept. The names of Rev. Wil iam De Vries, Rev. George F. Dudley, and Rev. C. Ernest Smith are mentioned in connection with this mission.

Friend Says He'll Decline,

Regarding the cable dispatch notifying he Bishop of his election, it was decided that no other cable should be sent after the first, sent on Wednesday, which read: "You have been elected Bishop of Washington. Affectionate greetings."

One of Bishop Brent's most ardent supporters in the convention, who declines to permit the use of his name, said yester day that any one who was personally ac quainted with Bishop Brent would know that he would not accept the position after having once declined it.

"Of course, there cannot be any objection to members of the clergy going to Manila to advise Bishop Brent of his election in their individual capacity," said Rev. Dr. W. M. Morgan-Jones, yesterday; "but they will go, if they do so, without authority of the convention. This delega-tion would be a self-appointed one, and would be without official standing. I be-ieve, however, that no seriousness need

tion of the first election was couched in such positive terms that it did not seem likely that he would now accept

Should Have Heeded Cable.

Dr. Morgan-Jones is of the opinion that mistake was made, in so far as no action was taken by the convention on the cable of Bishop Brent declining the office, "The declination," said Dr. Morgan-Jones, "should have been submitted to the convention before any other business. It was the duty of the convention to dispose of it, either accepting it or asking the bishop to reconsider or defer his decision. This should have been done as the first number on the programme when the convention met in the afternoon. This course,

Rev. Dr. McKim, president of the convention, received a letter from Bishop Brent yesterday, which, if it had been received before the convention was called to order, probably would have changed the result of the election Why Bishop Brent Declined.

The letter follows: Bagnio, P. I., May 11, 1908. Dear Dr. McKim: On the morning of the 8th estant I received your cablegram announcing that be diocese of Washington had conferred upon me the in the mountains, there was a delay of twelve hours before I got it. The same day I wired the reply: "Your great call under consideration. My duty not yet cleer. As God bids, I will do." I hope this reached you before the adjournment of convention.

There is little further that I can add now. When I came to the Original to was with the expectation. It came to the Ortent it was with the expectation that the remainder of my life would be devoted to the task committed to me by the church. My whole experience from the day of my ordination until now has been of a purely missionary character. This was my deliberate choice from preference and conviction, so that it costs me little to make an offering of my-self to the missionary cause. Hence, it would be self to the missionary cause. Hence, it would be possible for me to change the sphere of my activity only if I felt assured that in so doing I was seizing a superior opportunity for the promotion of the mis-sionary interests of the church.

Grieved Over Satterlee's Death. No one has grieved more than I over the death that great souled man who until now has been sur bishop. He was my loyal, loving friend, and to him I owe it in large measure that I am here. Whether er not I go to you, you have done a thing which binds me to you forever in asking me to be his successor. It is a call to be like him in simhis successor. It is a call to be like him in sim-plicity, righteousness, and piety. God helping me, it will not be in vain that you have given me this call. The inspiration flowing from your wonderful confidence in me as spiritual leader and American citizen feeds and will feed my manhood with new citizen feeds and will feed my manhood with new strength from day to day.

When my decision is made, you will rest assured, will you not, that I have shorn the problem of personal preference and side issues and reached my conclusion solely upon the real question at stake? Where can I best be used in behalf of the kingdom of God and of the nation? The opportunity presented by the diocese of Washington is. I believe, the greatest in our country, and I shall rejoice to embrace it if it be in the eternal counsels that I should do so.
